

Hi! My name is Haley, and I've been tutoring, teaching, and mentoring for over 12 years (my resume and CV are available on my "About Me" page on my website: greatmindstutoring.com). I am from outside of Philadelphia, and I got my start tutoring peers in high school. Then, in my senior year, I was hired by an SAT prep company, where I worked for several years (including some summers in between college semesters). In college at Wesleyan University in Connecticut, I majored in Earth & Environmental Sciences (E&ES) and English and minored in IDEAS (Integrated Design, Engineering, and Applied Science). During undergrad, I was an Academic Peer Advisor (APA), where I worked with students on academic skills like time management, organization, studying, and more. I was also a Writing Mentor/Tutor, working 1-on-1 with students on written work in any and all subjects. During my one-year master's degree at Wesleyan, I continued in my APA role with the Student Academic Resources office and hosted weekly writing check-ins for graduate students. Upon graduating, I then moved to Philadelphia, where I was an SAT/ACT tutor before moving out to Boulder to start another graduate program at CU.

Now, I just graduated with an MS in Geological Sciences in summer 2026. For this degree, I also taught several sections of the Introductory Geology lab at CU Boulder, and I spent the last two summers doing field work and teaching with CU Science Discovery. With so much teaching (and many years of freelance tutoring) experience, my philosophy and approach center around flexibility, patience, and meeting students where they are. My favorite subject to tutor is math (elementary through some pre-calculus and trigonometry), but I am well-equipped to work with students in the sciences (chemistry, biology, environmental science, and a little bit of physics) and the humanities, especially writing. I am also always willing to work with students and learn new material together: I have worked with students in subjects like Psychology, Philosophy, and History, even though they are outside of my areas of expertise. I am also happy to work with students to prepare for the SAT and ACT and private school entrance exams like the HSPT, the SSAT, and the ISEE. Finally, I love to help with written work of any kind (including college essays, graduate school applications, and cover letters!) and have a proven record of success. I would love to help you communicate your thoughts in an organized, effective, and eloquent way!

Please check out the next page for my rates.

PRICING:

First sessions will be discounted 25% to give us an opportunity to ensure that we are a good fit. Subsequent sessions will adhere to my normal rate of $100/hr for subject tutoring, $150/hr for essay writing (including college/graduate school application essays), and $150/hr for standardized test prep.

I am also open to sessions with multiple students, and that hourly rate would depend on the number of students in the group.

My sessions are primarily virtual via Zoom, but if you'd prefer in person sessions and live within ~10 miles of Boulder, I am willing to travel to you for an extra $30/hr (since travel time detracts from time I could be tutoring!).

If you would like to work with me but worry about affordability, please reach out to me at haleybrumberger@gmail.com; there's a good chance we can work something out ☺ (I implement a sliding scale for families with financial need).
